FDR — Preacher of "Political Morality"

Wendell Willkie has demonstrated to the country the kind of leadership it can expect from him if he is elected to the Presidency. He did this in connection with the very smelly campaign book activities of the Democratic National Committee.

Likewise Mr. Willkie has demonstrated how practical application with vigor and punch can be given to platitudes about the "moral climate" of America and "political morality" of which President Roosevelt is always talking.

It will be recalled that in 1936 the Democratic National Committee devised the advertising racket in a Convention Book in order to shake down corporations for campaign contributions and thus evade the Federal Corrupt Practices Act.

CORPORATIONS "FORCED TO BUY"

Subsequently the committee "sold" many thousands of these books to corporations, first at $2.50 a copy, then at $5 a copy and finally, with Mr. Roosevelt's autograph as the alleged bait, at $250 a copy. The corporations which were forced—and that word is used literally—to buy advertising in the book or the books themselves were with few exceptions either doing business with the Federal Government or under some form of regulation of the Federal Government.

The fact that the Democratic National Committee took in some $1,200,000 from these operations, as reported by the committee to Congress, did not arouse public indignation so much as did the revelation of the methods used to shake down these corporations.

Well-authenticated stories were put in the Congressional Record showing in 1936 that corporations doing business with the Federal Government were threatened, intimidated and coerced into signing on the dotted line—or else!

When these stordid stories became public it might have been expected that Mr. Roosevelt would have denounced the whole business—would have rebuked his National Committee for engaging in a project which so flagrantly violated the Federal Corrupt Practices Act which makes unlawful the giving or taking of contributions by or from corporations in connection with the election of Federal officers.

BLESSED BY ROOSEVELT

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, did nothing of the sort. Indeed, he gave the whole unlawful mess his benediction by autographing more than 1,000 of these books so they could be sold again to corporations, this time at the ridiculous price of $250 each. Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly thought he was making the bad corporations pay through the nose for his campaign expenses. How he must have chuckled.

But old John Q. Public, the average man on the street, did not see the joke. He was somewhat outraged at such brazen political immorality. So, when Congress came to revise the Hatch Act several months ago it undertook to make unlawful the merchandising of advertising, articles and commodities for the benefit of a political campaign. Mr. Roosevelt professed to favor that legislation—although representatives of his National committee did their best to have it pigeonholed.

Failing to stop the passage of the new law, the representatives of the Democratic National Committee decided to ignore it. They went ahead with plans for the solicitation of advertising for this year's convention book—and Mr. Roosevelt aided and abetted them by holding the bill for eight days on his desk before signing it—until the Democratic National Convention was over.

ANNOUNCEMENT IGNORED LAW

But even the signing of the law did not deter the Democratic leaders. They blandly announced that they proposed to proceed with the sale of their Convention Book. The only difference from 1936 was that this year they proposed to charge only 25 cents for it.

Again, did Mr. Roosevelt denounce this flagrant violation of the law? He did not. Wendell Willkie, however, got quick action with a mighty blast about the whole business. Immediately after the Willkie attack, New Deal Attorney General Robert H. Jackson pronounced the Democratic National Committee plan as unlawful. So did Democratic Senator Hatch, author of the legislation prohibiting such undertakings. Some days have passed—but not one word has been heard from the great preacher of "political morality"—Mr. Roosevelt.

It is no wonder that self-respecting Democrats are deserting their party by the tens of thousands to support Wendell Willkie. They are tired of a man who talks one way and acts another.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

CONFESSION AND FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT—II Samuel 12:13, 14; Psalm 51:1-3, 9-13; 32:5.
GOLDEN TEXT—Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed.—James 5:16.

If the Bible told us only of perfect people, we would recognize it as being not true to life and assuredly of no help to us who know our own sinful natures. The Bible, however, tells us in all truthfulness of the bad as well as the good, the weak as well as the strong, the humble as well as the mighty.

It honestly portrays the sins of its greatest characters, revealing the heart of man as "deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked" (Jer. 17:9). It tells us of a gracious God (when man repents and forsakes his sin) who invites the sinner to come and be delivered from his sin.

The lesson centers around David, the humble shepherd boy who became king; and in the height of his glory, being tempted of his own evil desires, fell into the lowest of sin which he then sought to cover by a well-planned murder. He finds no peace until he repents and returns to God. Three words summarize the lesson.

I. Sin (II Sam. 12:13, 14). That little three lettered word seems to have the hiss of the serpent in it—sin—the cause of all man's woes and the heartache of a loving God.

David had tried to hide his sin and he said, "My bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long. For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me" (Ps. 32:3, 4). "Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23) is just as true today as it was in David's time.

The nature of sin is described in Psalm 51, and if we may anticipate a bit, we note that it is described by three words: "transgression," meaning a rebellious "stepping over" God's boundaries; "iniquity," from the same root as our word "unequal," meaning crookedness of heart and life; and "sin," which means missing the mark, a life going the wrong way.

Note that sin, while it may bring sorrow and trouble to us and those round about us, is "against the Lord" (v. 13 and Ps. 51:4). The sinner must face and answer to God for his sin.

Nathan's straightforward dealing with David brought him to

II. Repentance (Ps. 51:1-3, 9-13). What David expressed to Nathan—"I have sinned against the Lord"—is more fully expressed in the great psalm of repentance which we know as Psalm 51. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith well says that "probably these verses have brought more comfort, and assurance of forgiveness, and hope for a renewed life after some terrible transgression, to a greater number of God's children down through the ages than any other single passage in the pages of the Old Testament."

To acknowledge one's transgression before God is to open the floodgates of His mercy, to receive His grace in forgiveness, cleansing, restoration, new joy, and (note it well) renewed usefulness (v. 13). God does not cast His people off because of their sin, nor cut off their usefulness when they repent.

Observe, however, that God did not permit David's sin to go unpunished. God is forgiving, but even repentance cannot wipe out the results of sin (II Sam. 12:14). God chastised David to declare before the people all of His divine hatred of sin. To sin against God is no light and casual thing. It cuts deeply into life, and only the grace of God is sufficient to bring a man up out of that pit. But there is

III. Forgiveness (Ps. 32:5). How tender and sweet is that word—forgiveness. It speaks of the removal of guilt, the breaking down of the barrier which sin has created, and the restoration of fellowship. Where all has been wrong and troubled, all has become right and at peace.

These things are true even in the forgiveness of one man toward another who has offended, but infinitely greater when the heart of God meets the repentant sinner. He is so ready to meet such a man that even while he is thinking of confessing, God sees the attitude of his heart and forgives. "At this moment, without sight or sound that mortal ear can detect, or attitude even before the thing is said, when I make up my mind to confess, 'thou forgivest the iniquity of my sin!' Do you wonder that when this man was going to write a psalm about this matter, he had to begin, 'O the blessings of transgression forgiven, and sin covered!'" (G. Campbell Morgan).

Fidelity

It is only by fidelity in little things that a true and constant love to God can be distinguished from a passing fervor of spirit.

SOCIETY

Paulsen-Fitzgerald Nuptials Followed by Reception for 50

Now on a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fitzgerald, whose marriage took place Saturday morning in the rectory of St. Peter's church.

For the 10 o'clock ceremony the bride, the former Miss Ida Marie Paulsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Paulsen, wore white embroidery lace over satin. Her veil was of fingertip-length, and she carried an armful of white carnations.

Her sister Ruth as maid of honor wore a pink net frock and carried pink carnations.

John Fitzgerald acted as best man for his brother.

Assisting in welcoming the 50 guests at the wedding reception in the Paulsen home afterward were the bride's mother, groomed in dark blue net, and the mother of the bridegroom, in a blue silk print. Relatives and friends from Chicago, Waukegan, Kenosha, Racine and Lake Villa were among those who attended.

On their return this week-end the Fitzgeralds plan to make their home at Kenosha, where the bridegroom operates a farm.

Five Hundred Attend Party at St. Peter's

Five hundred persons were in attendance and 112 tables of bridge, five hundred, pinocle and luncheon were arranged at the annual August party of St. Peter's Catholic church, held last Thursday afternoon in the parish hall.

Light refreshments were served after the card play. The hall was decorated with baskets and bouquets of summer flowers.

In addition to donors already announced, those who helped to make the affair a success by advertising or donations, or both, included: Antioch A&P store, Mrs. George Mosby, Mrs. William Walters, Mrs. J. K. Mulligan, Waukegan Co-Operative company, Mrs. T. Collins, Mrs. William Aink, Mrs. Frank Gleason, Mrs. Frank Feld, Mrs. Fred Marchene, Mrs. Herbert Vos, Antioch Nursery, Mrs. John Fackett.

"THIEF IN THE NIGHT" TO BE RADIO SUBJECT

"The Thief in the Night" will be the subject of next week's Radio broadcast over station WRIN, Racine, on Monday at 3 o'clock daylight saving time. There are two more talks to be given in this series of twenty talks, and Mrs. A. F. Mathison, who is in charge of them, states that copies of all the talks can be obtained by writing to the station at Racine.

SURPRISE PARTY IS HELD FOR MRS. PETTY

Mrs. W. C. Petty's birthday anniversary was the incentive for a surprise party held by several of her friends Monday evening at her home.

Mrs. Ruby Richey was in charge of arrangements.

Cards were played, with high score going to Mrs. Robert Wilson, second to Mrs. Ernest Brook and third to Mrs. Agnes Miller of Fox Lake.

METHODIST AID TO MEET AUGUST 23

A business meeting of the Antioch Methodist Ladies' Aid society which was postponed from an earlier date will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. W. C. Petty, Wednesday, August 23.

W. C. Petty and son, Frank, went to Springfield today to bring back four youths whom they took down Saturday to attend the Boys' State Fair school. John Thain attended from Antioch.

Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Blair and daughters, Jane and Betty Lou, Springfield, Ill., were dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. D. N. Deering Tuesday.

The Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Petty and family of Homer, Ill., arrived Wednesday for a few days' visit with Rev. Petty's brother, W. C. Petty, and family.

Mrs. E. E. Powell and daughter, of Bristol, were in Antioch Wednesday afternoon on business.

Mrs. S. B. Nelson and Mrs. A. P. Bratrude spent Wednesday in Chicago.

Bring in your old shoes and have them repaired by an expert workman, at Darnaby's Shoe store. (2-4c)

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Van Patten and daughter, Mildred, Mr. Eddie Van Patten, Jerry Hunter and George Miller spent Sunday at Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., visiting Sergeant Marvin E. Van Patten, also Capt. L. D. Powles, "Bill" Gerber, Robert Hall and Sgt. Paul Resch, who are stationed there for three weeks' military training.

Miss Helen Vilkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Vilkman, Deerfield, and Robert E. Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner, Grayslake, were quitted in marriage Saturday at Deerfield. They plan to make their home in Grayslake following their return Sept. 1 from a honeymoon trip in the south.

Miss Jeanne Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Perry, 497 Lake street, left Sunday to enter the nurses' training school at Michael Reese hospital, Chicago. Jeanne was graduated from Antioch Township High school in June.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Kutil and daughter, June, attended the Wisconsin State fair in Milwaukee Thursday.

Motorcycle Collides with Truck
Jack Kertz, 19, and Elizabeth Brown, 17, both of Libertyville, have been recovering in the Kenosha hospital from injuries received when the motorcycle on which they were riding collided with a truck-load of lumber that turned from an over-pass runway into the highway. Charles Lake, driver for Gus Sabarg, Wilmette lumberman, was held for failure to have red flags attached to the load of lumber and for failure to have a driver's license.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 18.

The Golden Text was, "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my soul" (Psalms 66:10).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "My soul, wait thou only upon God: for my expectation is from him. He only is my rock and my salvation: he is my defence; I shall not be moved. Trust in him at all times; ye people, pour out your heart before him: God is a refuge for us" (Psalms 62:1, 5, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul is the substance, Life, and Intelligence of man, which is individualized, but not in matter. Soul can never reflect anything inferior to Spirit" (p. 417).

Vacancies in Naval Reserve Announced

Due to the rapid expansion of the Navy at the present date, increased demands are being made upon the Naval Reserve for men for communication and clerical duty.

A large number of radiomen, telegraphers, signalmen and yeomen (for clerical and stenographic duties) are needed to perform active duty at the present time, in addition to the normal requirements for the Naval Reserve to provide the necessary personnel for mobilization.

The age limits have recently been raised in the case of ex-service men allowing the enlistment of ex-Navy men up to fifty years of age.

There are also requirements for men in the following trades whose civilian occupation would fit them for Naval service: Aviation machinists, metal-smiths and photographers; carpenters; cooks and bakers; electricians; machinists; mechanics; molders and patternmakers; musicians; painters; printers; engineers; draftsmen; plumbers; steelworkers; and telephone men.

Full particulars can be obtained by visiting the nearest Naval Reserve organization or Navy Recruiting Station or by writing the Commandant, Ninth Naval District, Great Lakes, Ill.

Shoppin' with Sylvia

A lady "buyer" for an Antioch store informs us the "cigarette" silhouette and lowered waistline are the "new" things for fall, in place of the "seissors" silhouette. . . . New fall gowns and hats are making their appearances in Antioch stores these weeks. . . . Fine corduroys and suede cloth are being featured in rich colors in many autumn frocks. . . . and gold ornaments and jewelry promise to be more popular than ever.

Believe it or not . . . but one Antioch store informs us that quite a few Chicagoans vacationing at the lakes have been buying their fall outfits here . . . to take back to Chicago with them. . . . Toilet articles are being put up in tricky containers. . . . Latest thing out in cologne seems to be a big, fat colored glass bottle that when empty can be made over into a boudoir lamp. . . . and then there is that popular line of cosmetics done up in new-old fashioned tinted hoth-nail glass containers. . . . You'll find them at an Antioch drug store.

We see where you can get those heavy ribbed-knit jacket sweaters that are all "the go" in several Antioch stores. . . . they're just the right sort of casual thing to slip into of a chilly morning or evening . . . and very reasonably priced, too.

Industry Ready to "Keep 'em Rolling" for Defense

Graphic illustration of the way in which one of America's greatest industries gears its activities with the United States Army for national defense is found at Little Falls, Minn., where the greatest peacetime maneuvers in the history of the country are being held Aug. 3-Aug. 24. To "keep them rolling," Chevrolet, one of the largest suppliers of motor transport equipment to the nation's armed forces, has set up through one of its dealers, the Bert Baston Motor Co., of Minneapolis, a complete parts and service headquarters in the military reservation at Little Falls. More than $10,000 worth of parts is maintained at this depot, where three service representatives are on duty 24 hours daily to service Chevrolet equipment in use. The 85,000 troops in actual combat maneuvers will use 1,180 Chevrolet transport units, including officers' cars, reconnaissance cars, hundreds of trucks adapted to special uses, and military ambulances.

Road Bridges Made Better by U. of I. Studies

Highway bridges are being designed with more efficient use of materials as a result of investigations being made at the University of Illinois. The university's engineers have published five extensive reports of mathematical analyses and laboratory tests of concrete roadway slabs on bridges.

Many of the more than 3,000 highway bridges built annually are entirely of concrete. Most of the steel bridges have concrete roadway slabs. The results of work at Illinois apply to both types. Approximately $50,000,000 a year is spent in the United States on highway bridges.

"Results reported in the University of Illinois bulletins should lead to more balanced bridge design—to making all parts equally strong," says Prof. F. E. Richart, who is the senior of five university engineers engaged on the project.

"New specifications of the U. S. Public Roads administration refer to results obtained here. Heavier curbs and thinner roadway slabs may follow from these studies," he states.

The bulletins published are important to engineering. Together they total 460 pages. They represent $50,000 worth of testing, which is only the start of investigations into an almost untouched field of engineering research.

Taft 'Dream Museum' Needed at U. of Ill.

In the memorial room of Smith Music hall at the University of Illinois is a model showing the last great—and unfinished—dream of the Middle West's own sculptor, the late Lorado Taft. Taft died in 1930. For a quarter century he had planned and urged what he called his "dream museum."

In his studio he collected materials for it, and made a miniature. This miniature, and his studio collection of originals, casts, "peep shows," and sketches was brought after his death to the University of Illinois, where he had been graduated in 1870.

Much of the collection has been stored, because the university has no place to display it. Much of the university's own collection, and many valuable art gifts to it likewise are not on display because of lack of a place for showing them.

Some day, university officials and friends hope, the campus at Urbana-Champaign will be the site of Lorado Taft's "dream museum" come true, with all these materials shown for the pleasure and inspiration of the university's thousands of students and for the many visitors who will come to see them.

Scientists Answer 'Food Pill' Dreams At Univ. of Illinois

GREATEST MENACE TO U. S. SWINE

Throughout the ages Bubonic or Black Plague has been the most dreaded of all human ailments, and at one time in history it was said to have killed off a quarter of the population of Europe.

Hog cholera might well be called the "Bubonic Plague" of the swine industry for this subtle and fatal contagion still causes an annual loss on American farms of from 20 to 30 millions of dollars.

hog cholera outbreak was in 1926 when 60 head of each thousand swine fell victims to the disease. Only prompt action by farmers and veterinarians blocked the disease at that time. Thanks to modern vaccination by local veterinarians, losses over the past ten years have averaged not to exceed 35 head per each thousand swine.

Even so this represents a terrible and really needless loss. Sanitation and drugs are of little value. It is only by vaccination that the amount of virus that can be carried on the feet of a single fly has been known to transmit the disease.

Progress of hog cholera losses by years. Left-hand column shows number of hogs lost per thousand of hog population. Dotted line, estimated.

Back in 1895 a terrific outbreak of hog cholera swept over the United States and killed one in ten of the total hog population. Then again in 1913, a short time after government scientists discovered the cause of the disease and perfected a preventive serum, another disastrous outbreak hit and killed 105 head of each thousand swine in the nation. The last great

The only sure, safe and economical prevention is to have all pigs immunized by a veterinarian at weaning time and to be sure that all adult hogs on the farm have been vaccinated.

If every farmer had his herd immunized every year, it is believed that the mortality rate caused by cholera could be cut from 35 per thousand to as little as 5 head per thousand.

BUY COAL NOW - Prices will be higher!

To the Trade:

Mr. H. A. Gray, Director of the Bituminous Coal Division, U. S. Department of the Interior, has announced that minimum prices for all grades of bituminous coal, as established under the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, will become effective September 3, 1940.

The United States Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937. It seems certain, therefore, that the bituminous coal industry will be subject to price regulation, as well as the various marketing rules established by the Bituminous Coal Division, on and after the effective date above mentioned.

This will raise prices of Coal. Kindly get orders in early so we can protect you on lowest possible prices.

1,000 Nazi Bombing Planes Launch 'History's Greatest Mass Air Raid'; Aliens in U. S. Start Registration; Aircraft 'Bottleneck' Slows Defense

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

A French soldier and sailor are pictured here reading the poster written by General De Gaulle, head of the French military forces in England. It reads: "A tous les Français: Vive la France! France has lost a battle—but France has not lost the war."

THE WAR:

'Greatest in History'

From Wales to Scotland, German bombers attacked the island of Great Britain in what was being called the "greatest mass air attack in history." Always before as the Nazi planes attacked, their numbers could be reported in fives and tens but this time dispatches from both Berlin and London indicated that there were hundreds of planes in the air.

One official British source estimated that in a single day a Nazi air armada of more than 1,000 planes had rained bombs on all of England—from Scotland's border right through the Midlands to Wales. Even London itself was bombed for the first time during the war as the German pilots dropped tons of high explosives up and down the river Thames, concentrating on a terrific attack upon famed Croydon airport, one of Europe's largest and best equipped landing fields.

As usual both Germany and England claimed that the enemy came out second best. England said that her famous fighter planes had driven off the Nazis in time to prevent "great damage." But Berlin, while not at first admitting that London had been bombed, did claim that "the entire Thames valley witnessed methodical, irresistible German air attacks which threaten all military establishments with destruction."

Southern Exposure

Mussolini has chosen to attempt the Italian version of a blitzkrieg in Africa. He sent 250,000 soldiers streaking across British Somaliland with control of the Suez canal and the British lifeline to India as stakes in the gamble.

The campaign will be hot in more ways than one. This is the time of the year when intense heat of more than 120 degrees grips Somaliland and the monsoon blows from mid-night to mid-afternoon. Clouds give little relief from the scorching sun and there is little rainfall. The British hold all the best oases, where men must drink or die.

ALIENS:

I (have, have not) . . .

Five million questionnaires in six key languages are being distributed to aliens living within the United States. All must answer 15 searching questions asked by the government before December 26. Before that time also all residents not native born or naturalized must be fingerprinted.

Most pertinent query reads: "Within the past five years I (have, have not) been affiliated with or active in (a member of, official of, a worker for) organizations devoted in whole or in part to influencing or

In the HEADLINES

DISMISSAL—WPA Commissioner F. C. Harrington announced 423 work relievers who refused to sign affidavits that they were not members of the Nazi Bund or Communist party have been discharged.

CHRISTENING—For the new navy aircraft carrier, soon to be launched, President Roosevelt has selected Bon Homme Richard, name of the flagship of John Paul Jones, father of the United States navy.

NEW JOB—James A. Farley, resigned as postmaster general, will become head of the Coca Cola Export company. The former Democratic national chairman will not devote his full time to the New York Yankees, although he still may head a syndicate to purchase the ball team.

IDEA—When Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.) suggested a national referendum on the matter of conscription, he had all of Washington stumped. Experts agreed there was no way to carry out such an idea.

furthering the political activities, public relations or public policy of a foreign government."

Solicitor General Francis Biddle isn't ruling at this time whether membership in the German-American Bund or the Communist party would require an affirmative answer to the above.

The nation's 45,000 first and second class post offices will have charge of distribution of questionnaires and fingerprinting. They expect to complete the records in six months, under the supervision of Earl G. Harrison, Philadelphia who left a lucrative law practice to take over the job.

Questionnaires are printed in Italian, German, Russian, Polish, Spanish and Yiddish.

DISCORD:

On the Downbeat

Radio sopranos, bellowing baritones and swing bands may soon be sounding another tune. The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers faces a revolt with the National Association of Broadcasters.

The ASCAP collects royalties on 95 per cent of the music broadcast. Its anticipated 1941 revenue is $3,750,000, 5 per cent of the income of virtually all stations. Next year it wants 7 1/2 per cent. But station executives threaten to do business only with Broadcast Music, Inc., which has a scale of only 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

If the break is not healed before January 1, virtually all popular music will be off the air. Many musical stars may even be forced to change the theme songs which identify them to millions. BMI contends to be only a few tunes, but expects to be in better condition before that time.

However, such favorites as Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, Victor Herbert, Cole Porter and the newer crop of composers are ASCAP standbys.

THE CAMPAIGN:

Repartee

Republican presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie, speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, said he was glad to appear in the home town of "that eminent scholar and gentleman, Henry A. Wallace." The crowd booed and cheered.

Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, posing for news photographers the following day, asked them to "see what you can do to make me look like an eminent scholar and gentleman." When asked if he intended to debate with Willkie, Wallace wise-cracked:

"I really do not know. Don't you think Willkie should endorse the Democratic ticket. He's with us now on the farm and foreign policies. He needs to do is get in line on social security and the WPA."

Back and Forth

Additional signs that the campaign was warming up came when Willkie suggested the Hatch act be amended so that the President "and members of his family" would declare their complete financial holdings on entering the White House and when they leave.

Asked about the proposal President Roosevelt replied since entering public service he was much poorer—and wiser.

"We are all poorer since 1928," shot back Willkie.

ETIQUETTE:

Bermuda Protocol

The duke and duchess of Windsor arrived in Bermuda, en route to the former king's new job, governor of the Bahamas. Social precedent was set by the wives of the highest placed matrons on the island. Mrs. Hastings Brooke, sister of Maj. Gen. Denis Kirwan Brooke, the governor, and Lady Kennedy-Purvis, curtsied to the duke. The duchess got a friendly nod, no curtsy.

NAMES

. . . in the news

George Bernard Shaw, British playwright and vegetarian, is laughing at meatless rations. "I cannot hope that we will become a nation of Bernard Shaws," he said "that would be too much to hope for."

Herbert Hoover is backing the movement to feed Belgium and France, if the English will lift the embargo.

Rear Admiral Robert L. Ghormley expects to have a reserved seat for the British invasion. On special orders of the President, he was sent to London as an observer, the highest ranking officer ever to hold this position in peacetime.

Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, was voted virtual dictator powers by the national assembly. He has control over wages, farming, industry, profits, transportation, rents and prices.

Lady Byng, widow of the one-time British field marshal, arrived in the United States as a refugee. Of the value of German bombing she said: "It was a bit wearying."

Fugitive

Patricia Wynn-Williams, little refugee from London—a fugitive from an aerial blitzkrieg—is pictured as she arrived in New York, en route for Chicago, where she and her sister will stay with friends until the war is over. She seemed a bit bashful as the cameraman pleads for a "big smile."

BUILDING PLANES:

Speed Up

U. S. arsenals and navy yards went on 24-hour schedule as contracts for arms, munitions and ships began to pour out of the office of the national defense commission. Many industrial plants, bidding on thousands of articles needed to equip and train an army, also were given orders amounting to billions of dollars.

Bottleneck

Production of vitally needed airplanes still is the headache of all concerned. William Knudsen, production chief of the NDC, said American factories now are prepared to turn out planes at the rate of 10,000 a year and by next January will have speeded up to the rate of 18,000 a year.

But immediately following this announcement came the depressing news from War Secretary Stimson that although congress had appropriated money for 4,000 fighting planes, contracts had been let for only 33 of them.

And national guardsmen on maneuvers at the Canadian border are without equipment. Trucks are used as make-believe heavy tanks, station wagons simulate light tanks, legs are passed off as cannon, and gas pipes have signs informing those to whom it may concern that "this is an anti-tank gun."

Stimson said businessmen wanted to know, before they undertook contracts, how they would be taxed, as well as assurance of tax credits for the cost of plant expansion. Stimson said a company which undertook building of new factories for defense orders was taking an abnormal risk because the plants might turn out useless in case of "a sudden cessation of the emergency."

On the QT

Inside dope is that some airplane companies are not waiting for congress to make up its mind about taxes. Planes are being produced and put on the shelf. When congress passes the tax legislation, planes will be available at once.

MISCELLANY:

Touring

Mrs. Alice Cornelius of Glen Head, N. Y., parked her car on a hill and went shopping. The car was missing when she returned. So she walked down to the police station at the foot of the street to report it. She found: A wall of the police station smashed in, furniture wrecked, a stove overturned, and, halfway up to the chief's desk, her automobile.

Willkie Speech Of Acceptance Thrills Nation

Republican Candidate for President Outlines Policies Before Vast Audience at Elwood.

ELWOOD, IND. — Coming back to this, the town in which he was born and grew to young manhood, and before a wildly enthusiastic audience of many thousands, Wendell Willkie accepted the nomination for President on the Republican ticket.

In that acceptance Mr. Willkie promised the kind of leadership that will keep America a nation of free men, a nation of prosperous people, a nation offering opportunity for all. He said: "An acceptance speech is a candidate's keynote, a declaration of his broad principles. It cannot possibly review the issues in detail. I shall, however, cover each of them frankly during this campaign. Here I give you an outline of the political philosophy that is in my heart. We are here today to represent a sacred cause—the preservation of American democracy."

"Obviously, I cannot lead this cause alone. I need the help of every American—Republican, Democrat or Independent—Jew, Catholic, or Protestant—people of every color, creed, and race. Party lines are down. Nothing could make that clearer than the nomination by the Republicans of a liberal Democrat who changed his party affiliation because he found democracy in the Republican party and not in the New Deal party."

Thunderous applause greeted Willkie's statement that party lines are down. When he said the times demanded the help of Americans from every walk, the cheers came wave upon wave, the vast crowd waving sensed that it typified that very thought. Here were a hundred thousand Americans from every part of the United States, representing every faith, every station of life, yet carried away by a single devotion.

WENDELL WILLKIE

Mr. Willkie briefly sketched his boyhood in Elwood and told of his ancestors who, like the ancestors of millions of Americans, lived in central Europe. They were humble people—not members of the ruling or wealthy classes. Their opportunities were restricted by discriminatory laws and class distinctions. One was exiled because of his religion; another was persecuted because he believed in the principles of the French revolution; and still another was jailed for insisting on the right of free speech. As their descendant, I have fought from boyhood against all those restrictions, discriminations and tyrannies. And I am still fighting."

Foreign Policy. Mr. Willkie compared the peace of America with the conditions in war-torn Europe, and defined his foreign policy by saying:

"No man is so wise as to foresee what the future holds or to lay out a plan for it. No man can guarantee to maintain peace. Peace is not something that a nation can achieve by itself. It also depends on what some other country does. It is neither practical, nor desirable, to adopt a foreign program committing the United States to future action under unknown circumstances. The best that we can do is to decide what principle shall guide us. For me, that principle can be simply defined:

"In the foreign policy of the United States, as in its domestic policy, I would do everything to defend American democracy and I would refrain from doing anything that would injure it. We must not permit our emotions—our sympathies or hatreds—to move us from that fixed principle."

Again the crowd let out a deafening cheer. It was an exciting moment. A nation was waiting anxiously to hear Mr. Willkie's views on foreign relations. The enthusiastic response of the crowd reflected a nation thrilled.

National Defense. From foreign policy Willkie turned to national defense of which he said in part:

Wendell Willkie's Birthplace at Elwood, Ind.

"We must not shirk the necessity of preparing our sons to take care of themselves in case the defense of America leads to war. I shall not undertake to analyze the legislation on this subject that is now before congress, or to examine the intentions of the administration with regard to it. I concur with many members of my party, that these intentions must be closely watched. Nevertheless, in spite of these considerations, I cannot ask the American people to put their faith in me, without recording my conviction that some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to secure the trained and competent manpower we need for national defense."

He stated in definite terms his belief in a policy of providing to the opponents of force the material resources of this nation, and our own preparation for meeting any emergency that may arise, but criticized the President in his conduct of foreign affairs at this critical time, saying:

"There have been occasions when many of us have wondered if he is deliberately inclining us to war. I trust that I have made it plain that in the defense of America, and of our liberties, I should not hesitate to stand for war. But like a great many other Americans I saw what war was like at first hand in 1917. I know what war can do to demoralize civil liberties at home. And I believe it to be the first duty of a President to try to maintain peace. "But Mr. Roosevelt has not done this. He has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics. Of course, we in America like to speak our minds freely, but this does not mean that at a critical period in history our President should cause bitterness and confusion for the sake of a little political oratory. The President's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hopelessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want. He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give."

"Walk softly and carry a big stick" was the motto of Theodore Roosevelt. It is still good American doctrine for 1940. Under the present administration the country has been placed in the false position of shouting insults and not even beginning to prepare to take the consequences."

Cheers Interrupt.

Several times the speaker was compelled to stop as applause and encouraging shouts drowned out his voice. The cheers grew in volume and frequency as Mr. Willkie, citing France as a tragic example, declared in a firm voice that our foreign policy must "begin in the United States" and be dedicated to making us strong "right here in our own land."

Referring to the defeat of France, Mr. Willkie said in part: "And in this tragedy let us find our lesson. The foreign policy of the United States begins right here in our own land. The first task of our country in its international affairs is to become strong at home. We must regain prosperity, restore the independence of our people, and protect our defensive forces. If that is not done promptly we are in constant danger. If that is done no enemy on earth dare attack us. I propose to do it."

"I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy once before, both in business and in war, to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after. And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way."

A Doctrine of Growth.

For our home policy Mr. Willkie proposed to follow a doctrine of increased production, of increased growth, instead of the New Deal "doctrine of division," and said: "We are not asked to make more for ourselves. We are asked to divide among ourselves that which we already have. The New Deal doctrine does not seek risk, it seeks safety. Let us call it the 'I pass' doctrine. The New Deal dealt it, and refused to make any more bets on the American future."

"Why, that is exactly the course France followed to her destruction! Like the Blum government in France, so has our government become entangled in unfruitful political adventures. As in France, so here, we have heard talk of class distinctions and of economic groups preying upon other groups."

"As for me, I want to say here and now that there is no hate in my heart, and that there will be none in my campaign. It is my belief that there is no hate in the hearts of any group of Americans for any other group—except as the New Dealers seek to put it there for political purposes. I stand for a new companionship in an industrial society."

"Because I am a business man, formerly connected with a large company, the doctrinaires of the opposition have attacked me as an opponent of liberalism. But I was a liberal before many of these men had heard the word, and I fought for many of the reforms of the elder LaFollette, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson before another Roosevelt adopted—and distorted—liberalism."

Opposed to Monopolies.

"I believe that the forces of free enterprise must be regulated. I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining, by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in full protection of those obvious rights. I believe in the maintenance of minimum standard for wages and of maximum standards for hours. I believe that such standards should constantly improve. I believe in the federal regulation of interstate utilities, of securities markets, and of banking. I believe in federal pensions, in adequate old age benefits, and in unemployment allowances."

"I believe that the federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer, with that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity of prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs. I believe in the encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and in the full extension of rural electrification. But American liberalism does not consist merely in reforming things. It consists also in making things."

"And I say that we must henceforth ask certain questions of every reform, and of every law to regulate business or industry. We must ask: Has it encouraged our industries to produce? Has it created new opportunities for our youth? Will it increase our standard of living? Will it encourage us to open up a new and bigger world?"

New Deal Victims.

Mr. Willkie demanded that kind of legislation, that policy, that will encourage business to expand, to create jobs for the unemployed, saying: "It is a statement of fact, and no longer a political accusation, that the New Deal has failed in its program of economic rehabilitation. And the victims of its failure are the very persons whose cause it professes to champion."

"The little business men are victims because their chances are more restricted than ever before."

"The farmers are victims because many of them are forced to subsist on what is virtually a dole, under centralized direction from Washington."

"The nine or ten million unemployed are victims because their chances for jobs are fewer."

"Approximately 6,000,000 families are victims because they are on relief."

"And unless we do something about it soon, 130,000,000 people—an entire nation—will become victims, because they stand in need of a defense system which this administration has so far proved itself powerless to create anywhere except on paper."

"To accomplish these results, the present administration has spent $60,000,000,000."

Mr. Willkie Accepts.

"I accept the nomination of the Republican party for President of the United States."

"I accept it in the spirit in which I know it was given at our convention in Philadelphia—the spirit of dedication. I herewith dedicate myself with all my heart, with all my mind, and with all my soul to making this nation strong."

"But I say this, too. In the pursuit of that goal I shall not lead you down the easy road. If I am chosen the leader of this democracy as I shall lead you down the road of sacrifice and of service to your country."

"What I am saying is a far harsher thing than I should like to say in this speech of acceptance—a far harsher thing than I would have said had the Old World not been swept by war during the past year. I am saying to you that we cannot rebuild our American democracy without hardship, without sacrifice, even without suffering. I am proposing that course to you as a candidate for election by you."

"When the speaker finished, the crowd went wild with enthusiasm. Hats went up in the air and shouts of 'Hurrah for Willkie' came from many thousands. They left the great meeting repeating to each other the words 'Willkie—the Hope of America.'"

Coming events cast their shadows before—Hardly had Ralph Cameron, builder of Bright Angel trail whereby thousands of tourists make the trip down into Grand Canyon, finished his project when engineers discovered a new use for the vast gorge besides its scenic beauty. At Boulder Canyon, Arizona, the greatest dam in the world, a third of a mile high, would impound a lake which, spreading over a great area in Arizona and Utah, would be (next to Lake Michigan), the largest fresh water body entirely within the United States. . . . The Boulder Canyon dam has not yet been built, but the people of the Southwest are as confident of its construction as that the Colorado will continue to flow between its giant walls.

LIFE'S JOURNEY
(Compiled by A. Channel)
"Once on a time a traveler was lost in a dense wilderness. It seemed that for endless ages he had wandered forlorn. No path there was; no sun by which to get his bearings. The briars tore his flesh, the pitiless wind and rain poured down their wrath. He had no home."

Then suddenly, when hope was gone, he came out upon a mountain side overlooking a lovely valley, in which was set a heavenly palace, the very Home of his dreams. With joy unspeakable he rushed to enter. But hardly had his foot stepped within its precincts when a heavy hand grasped him by the neck and—back he was again in that dread wilderness.

But now he was not without hope. He had seen his home. And with a courage unknown before he set upon his search. He was more careful now. He watched for signs of the Path. And strove to pierce the overhanging gloom for gleams of light.

And, after weary search, again he saw his home. He was more careful now. He did not rush to enter. He noted how it lay. He oriented by the sun. And softly his reverent feet bore him within. But, alas, again the heavy hand tore him from that loved home and back again he was in that vast wilderness. But now his heart was not at all cast down. He had his bearings. And with great joy he set upon his search again. And now he marked the trees so he could find the path again. The sky grew clearer overhead and gleams of sun assisted.

And soon, much sooner than before, he found his home again, and entered. This time he felt more calm and assured. This time he felt no fear of grasping hand. And when it came and grasped, and he was back in that foul wilderness of worldly things, he hastened with sure feet upon his search.

The sun shone brightly now. The songs of birds entranced his ear. And now he beat a Path. He tore away the impeding underbrush. For well he knew that he would often have to tread his way back and forth, while in this world. But he had found his home, and when the roar of men confused, and darkness came, he hastened back from self to God.

—From "Portals to Freedom" by Howard Colby Ives.

Concealing Bad Room Proportions
Wall and ceiling tints to conceal bad proportions and accent the feeling of space are now being generally used by home owners. Light colors, those mixed with white, tend to create a feeling of space and should be used as groundwork when this effect is sought. A gray background throughout the house, brightened with light shades of yellow, pale green, coral, or similar tints, will give a sense of space, and normally dark rooms will appear brighter. If the house is too large and appears empty, the action should be reversed. Dark shades, warm glowing colors, should be used to draw together an oversized room.

Balloons in Warfare
The French were probably the first to recognize the value of balloons for war purposes, a special study being given to the subject during the French revolutionary wars. Reconnoitering balloons were subsequently used in the French campaign in Italy in 1859. During the siege of Paris (1870-71), communication was effected between the besieged and the provinces by means of balloons carrying pigeons which were liberated to bring back news. Military balloons were used in the United States by the Federals during the Civil war.

Caught: One Muskrat
Twice the headlights on John Bates' car went out and twice he went to an Adrian, Mich., garage to have defective wiring replaced. The third time he suspected that some strange agency was at work so he placed a trap under the hood and caught a muskrat which had been gnawing the wires.

and Gerd's Swastika
The emblem of the Arizona national guard will be a thunderbird instead of a swastika. Despite the fact that a swastika was the emblem of the guards for years before it was adopted it, the fight against its use finally resulted in

Police Dog Intelligence
Intelligence of German police dogs reached a new high when one with a crushed paw reported of its own instincts to the emergency entrance of the Enloe hospital at Chicago, Calif. Dr. Enloe took the dog in, gave it an anesthetic and emputated the paw that apparently had been crushed by an automobile.

AMUSEMENTS

Two Movies Will Be Presented at Resorts

Two motion pictures, "Tobacco Land, U. S. A." and Fred Waring in "Pleasure Time," March of Time productions will be shown at Herman's resort on Bluff lake Friday evening, August 23, at 8 o'clock.

On the following evening the program will move to the Roundup on Highway 21.

Waring furnishes an orchestra to accompany the pictures, for which no admission charge will be made. Dancing will be a feature in connection with the shows.

"Tobacco Land" is said to be a great story of American tobacco farming. It takes its audience to two famous southern universities, a football game and a rally, and to an old-fashioned barbecue. It also shows how cigars are made, and how "tobacco land" lives and plays.

"Pleasure Time" pictures just how Waring's radio broadcast is produced. . . . all the work and fun that go into the making of these favorite radio programs.

John "Scat" Davis at the Kenosha Saturday

Johanne "Scat" Davis and his orchestra will appear in person at the Kenosha theatre Sunday, Aug. 25, for one day only, through arrangements with the Music Corporation of America.

Davis and his musical group are being acclaimed as the newest Hollywood dance favorites. It was there that their popularity among the screen notables skyrocketed them to nationwide fame.

Davis, whose "scat" singing was featured for years with Fred Waring's orchestra, remained in Hollywood after

Waring's band completed its motion picture, "Varsity Show." He played important roles in "Brother Rat," "Cowboy from Brooklyn," "Hollywood Hotel," "Garden of the Moon," and "A Baby Is Born."

However, he couldn't get away from his original love—the trumpet, and his longing to "swing out." The result—Johanne Davis and His Orchestra. They proved an instantaneous hit, and Hollywood acclaimed them as the "Band of the Year."
